SHORT BIOGRAPHY

Talal Abdulkarim is a board and executive adviser who helps organisations turn strategy, partnerships and AI into measurable growth.

Over four decades across the United States and the Gulf, he has led product and negotiation work at Intel Corporation, advised the Board of Al Jazeera Media Network, delivered more than 100 leadership programmes as a Senior Consulting Partner at FranklinCovey Middle East, and founded more than twelve ventures. Today he leads business development, partnerships and sponsorship for Al Jazeera's Digital Division, and advises leaders on adopting AI to create real business value.

He holds Master's and Bachelor's degrees in Technology Management from Portland State University, is PMP certified, and works fluently in Arabic and English.

"AI won't replace leaders. Leaders who use AI will replace those who don't."
